

List of Figures and Tables

Figure 1: Schematic image of Bishan community . . . . .	48
Figure 2: The Motai saké festival . . . . .	53
Figure 3: A meeting of the Shinshū Miyamoto School . . . . .	71
Figure 4: The ‘Ishimure Michiko Phenomenon’: Ishimure Michiko in the mainstream media (1970–2014) . . . . .	114
Figure 5: A small village shrine stands intact in the area completely devastated by the tsunami including the tide-water control forest. The coastal area of Wakabayashi Ward in Sendai City, Miyagi Prefecture . . . . .	122
Figure 6: ‘Too Many. Too Many and Too Young’ . . . . .	176
Figure 7: ‘Farewell. Farewell’. . . . .	177
Figure 8: Exhibition view from Global Activism at ZKM Centre for Art and Media, Germany, February 2014. Detail of an artwork by Mark Wallinger, comprising a reconstruction of a ‘peace camp’ in London’s Parliament Square, where activist Brian Haw lived from 2001 until his eviction in 2006, in protest at the UK’s participation in wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. In 2007, Wallinger’s ‘installation’ based on Haw’s encampment won the prestigious Turner Prize following its exhibition at the Tate Modern . . . . .	199
Figure 9: An event at Wooferten in September 2013 . . . . .	209
Figure 10: Installation view of Ichimura Misako’s ‘Homeless Artist’ exhibition at Wooferten, August 2011. The slogan on the wall reads ‘Hands off Miyashita Park!’, referring to the ultimately unsuccessful protests by Ichimura and colleagues to save Tokyo’s public Miyashita Park from private commercial development by the Nike Corporation . . . . .	215

Figure 11: Performance still of the ‘Back to 6.7.89 Pitt Street
Riot – Rolling Theatre of Tiananmen Massacre’, staged in Yau Ma Tei, Hong Kong, on 31 May and 7 June 2014. . . . . 223

Figure 12: Hyesan Market, 22 July 2015 . . . . . 230

Table 1: ANIS Annual Meetings from 2009 to 2013 . . . . . 258

Table 2: Field visits by The Hope Institute research team . . . . . 261

Figure 13: Keyword cloud of social innovation. . . . . 262

Figure 14: Two-step categorisation of keywords and themes of social innovation in Asia . . . . . 262

This text is taken from New Worlds from Below: Informal life politics and grassroots action in twenty-first-century Northeast Asia, edited by Tessa Morris-Suzuki and Eun Jeong Soh, published 2017 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.