

Tables

Table 4.1 Summary statistics	71
Table 4.2 Regression results	76
Table 4.A1 Forecast investment growth rates	87
Table 4.A2 Forecast GDP growth rates.	88
Table 6.1 Preliminary statistics	124
Table 6.2 Inequality in educational outcomes.	128
Table 6.3 Determinants of years of schooling: Nationwide, urban and rural. . .	130
Table 6.4 Determinants of years of schooling by cohort	132
Table 6.5 Inequality of opportunity: Nationwide, urban and rural	136
Table 6.6 Partial contributions to relative inequality of opportunity (IOR_p) . . .	137
Table 7.1 Descriptive statistics	151
Table 7.2 Regression results for growth accounting without intangibles	152
Table 7.3 Categories of intangible investment	154
Table 7.4 Increasing trend of intangibles in China (RMB thousand)	155
Table 7.5 Relationship between the intangible–tangible ratio and TFP growth.	156
Table 7.6 Impact of growth of different categories of intangible–tangible ratio on growth of TFP	158
Table 7.7 Results of growth accounting with intangibles	159
Table 7.8 Results of growth accounting with detailed intangible capital	161
Table 7.A1 Changes of parameters in sensitivity analysis (per cent)	169
Table 8.1 Number of Chinese firms	178
Table 8.2 Number of Chinese patent applications, 1995–2014	183
Table 8.3 Number of patents approved by SIPO and patents granted to Chinese applicants from overseas patent offices, 1995–2014	185
Table 8.4 Foreign patents citations on Chinese domestic patents approved by SIPO, 1995–2014.	186
Table 8.5 Total number of patents granted by the USPTO to (corporate) applicants from BRICS countries, Germany, Japan and South Korea.	187

Table 8.6 Distribution of domestically granted patents to firms, by firm type and year of application	192
Table 8.7 Hybrid negative binomial regressions on patent count: Baseline	196
Table 8.8 Impacts of wages on the innovation levels of labour-intensive firms . . .	198
Table 8.9 Impact of wages on levels of innovation in routine-intensive industries and sunset industries	199
Table 8.10 Impact of R&D on patent output: Hybrid negative binomial regressions	203
Table 8.A1 Hybrid negative binomial regression on patent count: Using lagged wages.	210
Table 8.A2 Hybrid negative binomial regression on the patent count: Using minimum wages.	211
Table 9.1 Calculated growth rates, shares and returns to scale (per cent, unless otherwise noted)	219
Table 9.2 Selected estimates of TFP growth and its share in output growth (per cent)	220
Table 9.3 Computational results: Coastal versus non-coastal regions (per cent)	221
Table 10.1 Regional economies' absolute β convergence test results (not considering the spatial effect)	236
Table 10.2 Regional economies' absolute β convergence test results (adjacent matrix weight).	236
Table 10.3 Results of absolute β convergence of regional economies (reciprocal weight of spatial distance)	238
Table 10.4 Results of the β convergence test of regional economic conditions. . .	240
Table 11.1 Descriptive statistics of the main variables (no. = 4,067)	252
Table 11.2 Distribution of the effect of patent protection intensity on R&D expenditure	254
Table 11.3 Analysis of structural differences in the effect of patent protection on promoting R&D	256
Table 12.1 Technological development and innovation strategies in China's aerospace sectors	276
Table 14.1 Hydropower projects under construction in China	331
Table 14.2 Renewable energy development targets for China	336

Table 14.3 Revised targets for renewable energy in China.	337
Table 16.1 Commodity composition of China's exports within global production networks, 2000–01 and 2014–15 (per cent)	370
Table 16.2 China's share of global network trade, 2000–01 and 2014–15 (per cent)	371
Table 16.3 Annual average wages for manufacturing workers in selected countries (US$)	372
Table 16.4 Destination-country composition of China's global network exports, 2000–01 and 2014–15 (per cent)	374
Table 16.5 Source-country composition of China's global network imports, 2000–01 and 2014–15 (per cent).	375
Table 16.6 Sales values for US multinational enterprises operating in China, 2013 (US$ billion).	380
Table 17.1 Estimation results of the impact on provincial economic growth of IFDI and OFDI.	399
Table 17.2 Estimation results of the impact on provincial economic growth of IFDI and OFDI (OFDI stock)	401
Table 18.1 Comparison of internal trade with external trade of the EEU countries, 2015	417
Table 18.2 Trade between EEU member countries, 2015	417
Table 18.3 The top-five commodity trading partners of EEU countries	418
Table 18.4 China–Central Asia natural gas pipeline construction	423
Table 18.A1 Basic information about 65 BRI countries, 2015	427
Table 18.A2 Trade connectivity index between EEU member countries, 2001–15	429

This text is taken from China's New Sources of Economic Growth: Human Capital, Innovation and Technological Change, Volume 2, edited by Ligang Song, Ross Garnaut, Cai Fang and Lauren Johnston, published 2017 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.