

Illustrations

Figures

- Figure 1. Complementary values: doba, cloth, cash, Orabesi village, Kiriwina . . . . . 44
- Figure 2. Women carrying baskets of doba, Losuia, Kiriwina . . . . . 47
- Figure 3. Lucianne Gilbert and the late Sarah Watson prepare pieces of karekwa for sagali, Orabesi village, Kiriwina . . . . . 49
- Figure 4. Carrying sepwana to sagali on the road to Kwemtula village, Kiriwina . . . . . 51
- Figure 5. Sagali gathering, Losuia, Kiriwina . . . . . 57
- Figure 6. The frenzied activity of ‘throwing’ doba at sagali, Kabwaku village, Kiriwina . . . . . 63
- Figure 7. Fresh banana leaf scraped over carved wooden board to incise pattern, Yalumgwa village, Kiriwina . . . . . 70
- Figure 8. Freshly scraped doba leaves drying in the sun, Yalumgwa village, Kiriwina . . . . . 70
- Figure 9. Veronica Matadoya making new bundles of nununiga, Yalumgwa village, Kiriwina . . . . . 71
- Figure 10. Singalong preceding Sunday church service at Obweria United Church, Obweria village . . . . . 76
- Figure 11. Sagali with calico cloth and store goods, Wapipi village, Kiriwina . . . . . 82
- Figure 12. Maisin dancers wearing their tapa loincloths at a church festival held near Tufi . . . . . 92

SINUOUS OBJECTS

Figure 13. Maisin dancers wearing their regalia and tapa cloths decorated with clan designs . . . . . 93

Figure 14. Monica patching holes in a piece of barkcloth . . . . . 100

Figure 15. Mildred painting a piece of tapa with red pigment that is kept warm on a fire . . . . . 104

Figure 16. Georgina being dressed up in her father’s regalia on her wedding day . . . . . 111

Figure 17. Abraham undergoing his ‘end of mourning’ ritual . . . . . 112

Figure 18. Pile of gifts for Georgina’s in-laws, including pots, mats and tapa. . . . . 112

Figure 19. A woman with baitab nokwat packed ready for transport (1967). Each pack contains four pots wrapped and secured for carriage suspended from the head. On the 2002 expedition, the women did not use this carrying method, simply placing their pots packed inside string bags directly into the canoe . . . . . 128

Figure 20. Potter applying design elements to her pot with a shell . . 132

Figure 21. Application of designs while seated . . . . . 133

Figure 22. A ‘flower pot’ placed beside a grave in the cemetery at Wanigela. The potter has written ‘JESUS’ on one side. In former times, a clan design was used. The white stones in the foreground mark the perimeter of the grave. Bright plastic flowers cover the grave . . . . . 134

Figure 23. Jessette presents a newly unfurled string bag . . . . . 155

Figure 24. Women belonging to the groom’s support group retrieving their string bags . . . . . 159

Figure 25. Ethel flattening and scraping the pandanus leaf with a bikororo leaf . . . . . 162

Figure 26. Elma making a savasava . . . . . 163

Figure 27. Jessette folds the mat . . . . . 165

Figure 28. Side-stitching the mat . . . . . 166

- Figure 29. Jessette and granddaughters scratching patterns into pandanus leaves . . . . . 167
- Figure 30. Pig laid on mat and covered with tapa . . . . . 172
- Figure 31. Tessa Miller, The Wrong Copyright, earth pigments on barkcloth and laminated paper, 2015 . . . . . 183
- Figure 32. Folding a dark barkcloth (ngatu 'uli) decorated with motifs inspired from historical museum barkcloths to incorporate in the wedding bed (mohenga mali). Sia ko Veiongo, Kolomotu'a, Tongatapu . . . . . 187
- Figure 33. 'Eiki Salote Lupepau'u Salamasina Porea Vahine Arii 'o e Hau Tuita and Matai'ulua-'i-Fonuamotu Fusitu'a sitting on the wedding bed (mohenga mali), which forms a throne showing their elevated status. Mala'e Pangai Lahi, Nuku'alofa, Tongatapu. . . . . 187
- Figure 34. Koloa si'i including crocheted bedspreads (kafu niti), sweets panels (tapu lole) and baskets with sweets (kato lole) presented at the marquee on the palace grounds. Nuku'alofa, Tongatapu . . . . . 193
- Figure 35. Pathway of ngatu tāhina (rusty-brown barkcloth) extending from the palace to the royal tombs. Mala'e Kula, Nuku'alofa, Tongatapu. . . . . 197
- Figure 36. Kalo delivers a sermon at her church. The altar and tables in front and behind her are draped in fine mats . . . . . 213
- Figure 37. Kalo (centre), her daughter, 'Ana, and great-nephew dressed for the New Year's Day service at their church . . . . . 214
- Figure 38. A family dressed for a special service at church.
The father and three young sons are all adorned in ta'ovala (waist mats) . . . . . 222
- Figure 39. Kalo (seated at rear) and her textile group fellow work together on decorating a fine mat in her living room . . . . . 223
- Figure 40. Koloa presented at Kalo's relative's 60th birthday celebration; note the barkcloth-covered tables at centre, fine mat-draped floor and chair at left, and cakes presented to honour guests at right . . . . . 224

SINUOUS OBJECTS

Figure 41. Evenglynn Andon with some of the urohs she sews and her sister's drawings. This poem, 'urohs language', was written about Evenglynn . . . . . 257

Figure 42. Karly Tom with the urohs she sells at her store in Pehleing, Kitti, Pohnpei . . . . . 259

Maps

Map 1. Kiriwina, Trobriand Islands, Papua New Guinea . . . . . 68

Map 2. Collingwood Bay, Oro Province, Papua New Guinea. . . . . 95

Table

Table 1. Exchange equivalence of pots with other items in 2001–03 . . . . . 141

This text is taken from Sinuous Objects: Revaluing Women's Wealth in the Contemporary Pacific, edited by Anna-Karina Hermkens and Katherine Lepani, published 2017 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.