

List of illustrations

Boxes

Box 1.1 A ‘First principles review of Defence’	3
Box 3.1 Homelessness	111
Box 5.1 ASX board charter	198
Box 6.1 A set of research tasks for ‘the centre’	268
Box 8.1 A public service role and strategy statement.	352

Figures

Figure 1.1 The analytical framework.	33
Figure 1.2 A performance measurement framework	38
Figure 1.3 The Windrum map of public sector activity.	47
Figure 2.1 Delivering accountability.	78
Figure 5.1 The role of the public service: the communities served. . .	176
Figure 7.1 The basic strategy development framework	289
Figure 8.1 Organisational-level competitive advantage	310

Tables

Table 1.1 Transparency International: ‘Corruption Perceptions Index 2016’	10
Table 2.1 Australian Government departments.	62
Table 2.2 Recipients of public service outputs	64

Table 2.3 Models of governance	83
Table 4.1 The changing role of the citizen	143
Table 5.1 The key clauses of the Public Service Act 1999	171
Table 5.2 Public service values	171
Table 5.3 The role of the public service: an expanded view	183
Table 5.4 Proposed changes to the Public Service Act.	217
Table 6.1 Themes in private sector organisational design	241
Table 6.2 Mintzberg's coordination mechanisms and organisational models	254
Table 6.3 The evolution of the role of the corporate office and organisational structures	262
Table 7.1 A public service strategic management framework	297
Table 8.1 Public service markets and players.	337
Table 8.2 Public service markets and competition	346
Table 9.1 Types and characteristics of public sector innovation.	362
Table 11.1 A sad tale of fragmentation	396

This text is taken from Competing for Influence: The Role of the Public Service in Better Government in Australia, by Barry Ferguson, published 2019 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.