<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Beattie</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>American vines, European potatoes: An evolutionary history of European migrations in southern Brazil</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claudio de Majo and Eduardo Relly</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>'The madding Wheeles of brazen Chariots rag’d; dire was the noise': Motoring and the environment in New Zealand before the Second World War</td>
<td>31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander Trapeznik and Austin Gee</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biofuels’ unbalanced equations: Misleading statistics, networked knowledge and measured parameters. Part 3: Modelled marginal and spare land versus observed ecosystems</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kate B. Showers</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British huntswomen in colonial India: Imperialism and gender hierarchies, 1890–1921</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vijaya Ramadas Mandala</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Temporalising nature: Chronologies of colonial species transfer and ecological change across the Indian Ocean in the age of empire</td>
<td>101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ulrike Kirchberger</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
International Review of Environmental History is published by ANU Press
The Australian National University
Acton ACT 2601, Australia
Email: anupress@anu.edu.au
This title is available online at press.anu.edu.au
ISSN 2205-3204 (print)
ISSN 2205-3212 (online)
This title is published under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0).

The full licence terms are available at creativescommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/legalcode

Cover design and layout by ANU Press
Cover photograph: 'Broadwood Saddle road, Hokianga County', Northwood Collection, Alexander Turnbull Library © 2020 ANU Press

Editor:
James Beattie, The Centre for Science in Society, Victoria University of Wellington; Research Associate, the Centre for Environmental History, The Australian National University; Senior Research Associate, Department of History, Faculty of Humanities, University of Johannesburg

Associate Editors:
- Brett M. Bennett, University of Western Sydney; University of Johannesburg
- Andrea Gaynor, University of Western Australia

Editorial Board:
- Eugene N. Anderson, University of California, Riverside
- Alessandro Antennolo, Flanders University
- Maoshong Bao, Peking University
- Greg Barton, University of Western Sydney
- David Biggs, University of California, Riverside
- Tom Brooking, University of Otago
- Nicholas Brown, The Australian National University
- Matthew Chew, Arizona State University
- Bruce Clarkson, University of Waikato
- Christopher J. Courtney, Durham University
- Rosi Crane, Otago Museum
- Gregory T. Dismukes, University of Kansas
- Vinita Damodaran, University of Sussex
- Robert D'Souza, Kyoto University
- Ian Duggan, University of Waikato
- Sonja Dümplmann, Harvard University
- Fá-Fan Fan, Binghamton University
- James R. Fleming, Colby College
- Guorong Gao, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences
- Andrea Gaynor, University of Western Australia
- Tom Griffiths, The Australian National University
- Eugenia Herbert, Mount Holyoke College
- Katie Holmes, La Trobe University
- Adrian Howkins, Colorado State University
- Tom Isern, North Dakota State University
- Tom Brooking, University of Otago
- Andrea Gaynor, University of Western Australia
- Ruth Morgan, Monash University
- Rebecca Prinsley, Victoria University of Wellington

- Nancy Jacobs, Brown University
- Ryan Tucker Jones, Oregon State University
- Peter Lavelle, Temple University
- Joseph Lawson, Newcastle University
- Robert B. Marks, Whittier College
- Edward Mellilo, Amherst College
- Simona Müller, Rachel Carson Center, Ludwig-Maximilian University, Munich
- Grace Moore, University of Otago
- Emily O’Gorman, Macquarie University
- Hiroki Okawa, Yokohama National University
- José Pádua, Federal University of Rio de Janeiro
- Eric Pawson, University of Canterbury
- Unke Phath, Tallinn University
- Simon Pooley, Imperial College London
- Rebecca Rice, Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa
- Libby Robin, The Australian National University
- Kirstie Ross, Tasmanian Museum and Art Gallery
- Fei Sheng, Sun Yat-Sen University
- Lance van Sittert, University of Cape Town
- Sandra Swart, Stellenbosch University
- Fiona Williamson, Singapore Management University

About the Journal
International Review of Environmental History takes an interdisciplinary and global approach to environmental history. It publishes on all thematic and geographical topics of environmental history, but especially encourages articles with perspectives focused on or developed from the southern hemisphere and the ‘global south’. This includes but is not limited to Australasia, East and South East Asia, Africa and South America.

International Review of Environmental History’s editorial board includes historians, scientists and geographers, as well as scholars from other backgrounds, who work on environmental history and related disciplines, such as ecology, garden history and landscape studies. The methodological breadth of International Review of Environmental History distinguishes it from other environmental history journals, as does its attempt to draw together cognate research areas in garden history and landscape studies.

The journal’s goal is to be read across disciplines, not just within history. We encourage scholars to think big and to tackle the challenges of writing environmental histories across different methodologies, nations and timescales. We embrace interdisciplinary, comparative and transnational methods, while still recognising the importance of locality in understanding these global processes.

The Editor of International Review of Environmental History is happy to consider future special issues focusing on themes drawn from conferences or collaborations.

Submission Details
Please send article submissions or abstracts to the Editor, Associate Professor James Beattie, The Centre for Science in Society, Victoria University of Wellington, PO. Box 600, Wellington 6142, New Zealand. Email: james.beattie@vuw.ac.nz

Abstracts should be no more than 200 words, and include a list of keywords. Articles should be in the range 5,000 to 8,000 words (including footnotes), although longer submissions may be considered after consultation with the Editor.

Style and referencing: please use footnotes in Chicago style, and follow Australian spelling. For more details on Chicago style, please see: www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html

The journal also accepts letters and short ‘think pieces’. Please contact the Editor for further information.

Our open-access policy means that articles will be available free to scholars around the world, ensuring high citation rates and impact in and beyond the field of history.
takes an interdisciplinary and global approach to environmental history. Our open-access policy means that articles will be available free to scholars around the world, ensuring high citation rates and impact in and beyond the field of history. The journal also accepts letters and short ‘think pieces’. Please contact the Editor for further information.

Abstracts should be no more than 200 words, and include a list of keywords. Articles should be in the range 5,000 to 8,000 words (including footnotes), although longer submissions may be considered after consultation with the Editor. The Editor of International Review of Environmental History is happy to consider future special issues focusing on themes drawn from conferences or collaborations.

Submission Details

Please send article submissions or abstracts to the Editor, Associate Professor James Beattie, The Centre for Science in Society, Victoria University of Wellington, PO. Box 600, Wellington 6142, New Zealand. Email: james.beattie@vuw.ac.nz

About the Journal

International Review of Environmental History takes an interdisciplinary and global approach to environmental history. It publishes on all thematic and geographical topics of environmental history, but especially encourages articles with perspectives focused on or developed from the southern hemisphere and the ‘global south’. This includes but is not limited to Australasia, East and South East Asia, Africa and South America.

International Review of Environmental History’s editorial board includes historians, scientists and geographers, as well as scholars from other backgrounds, who work on environmental history and related disciplines, such as ecology, garden history and landscape studies. The methodological breadth of International Review of Environmental History distinguishes it from other environmental history journals, as does its attempt to draw together cognate research areas in garden history and landscape studies. The journal’s goal is to be read across disciplines, not just within history. We encourage scholars to think big and to tackle the challenges of writing environmental histories across different methodologies, nations and timescales. We embrace interdisciplinary, comparative and transnational methods, while still recognising the importance of locality in understanding these global processes.

The Editor of International Review of Environmental History is happy to consider future special issues focusing on themes drawn from conferences or collaborations.

Submission Details

Please send article submissions or abstracts to the Editor, Associate Professor James Beattie, The Centre for Science in Society, Victoria University of Wellington, PO. Box 600, Wellington 6142, New Zealand. Email: james.beattie@vuw.ac.nz

Abstracts should be no more than 200 words, and include a list of keywords. Articles should be in the range 5,000 to 8,000 words (including footnotes), although longer submissions may be considered after consultation with the Editor. The Editor of International Review of Environmental History is happy to consider future special issues focusing on themes drawn from conferences or collaborations.

Submission Details

Please send article submissions or abstracts to the Editor, Associate Professor James Beattie, The Centre for Science in Society, Victoria University of Wellington, PO. Box 600, Wellington 6142, New Zealand. Email: james.beattie@vuw.ac.nz

About the Journal

International Review of Environmental History takes an interdisciplinary and global approach to environmental history. It publishes on all thematic and geographical topics of environmental history, but especially encourages articles with perspectives focused on or developed from the southern hemisphere and the ‘global south’. This includes but is not limited to Australasia, East and South East Asia, Africa and South America.