

ANU HISTORICAL JOURNAL II

NUMBER 2

Contents

Editorial	iii
Jessica Urwin
Acknowledgements	vii
Jessica Urwin, Madalyn Grant, Tande Wang and Anthony Merlino

Articles

Sympathetic or Sinister? Representations of China in George Ernest Morrison's An Australian in China	3
Tom Gardner
Moral Messages in Dutch Realist Art of the Seventeenth-Century Golden Age	23
David T. Roth
'Mostly Good and Always Modern'? The Limits of the Modern for Women in the Home Magazine in the 1920s	43
Lucinda Janson
Harnessing the Past for Present Purposes: Self-Reflexivity in Researching and Teaching Western Australian Gay History	63
Bri McKenzie
A Life Triumphantly Well Written: Producing the Hawke Legacy, 1979–2019.	81
Joshua Black
The Internal and External Manifestations of Cultural Nationalism: A Borobudur Case Study	107
Chelsie Baldwin
The 'Housewife Syndrome': An Indicator of Madness or Oppression?	127
Keeley Adams
National and Personal Stories: Anzac and Forming a Sense of the Past for 'Ordinary Australians'.	149
Lucinda Fretwell

How John Howard Positioned Himself as Indigenous Australia's Champion . . .	169
Tim Rowse
Some Sources of Technological Novelty: An Essay	195
Carroll Pursell

Lectures

ANU Allan Martin Lecture 2019—Trump's Republic: An American History . . .	211
David Farber

Reviews

Governing Natives: Indirect Rule and Settler Colonialism in Australia's North by Ben Silverstein	233
Conversation between Jessica Urwin and Ben Silverstein
Taking Liberty: Indigenous Rights and Settler Self-Government in Colonial Australia, 1830–1890 by Ann Curthoys and Jessie Mitchell.	243
Emma Cupitt
Don Dunstan: The Visionary Politician Who Changed Australia by Angela Woollacott	251
Clare Parker
Our Corner of the Somme: Australia at Villers-Bretonneux by Romain Fathi	255
Margaret Harris
Convict Colony: The Remarkable Story of the Fledgling Settlement that Survived against the Odds by David Hill.	261
Matthew Cunneen
Contributors	271