Situating Women
Gender Politics and Circumstance in Fiji
Situating Women
Gender Politics and Circumstance in Fiji

Nicole George
Contents

Maps and Illustrations .......................................................... ix
Acknowledgements ............................................................. xi
Abbreviations and Acronyms ................................................ xiii
Introduction: Situating Women ............................................... 1
1. A Feel for Context: Contingency and Women’s Collective Agency .................................................... 19
2. ‘A New Frontier’: Pioneering Gender Politics in Fiji’s Independence Era ................................................. 39
3. Beyond the ‘New Frontier’?
   Fiji’s Decade for Women: 1976–1985 ................................. 75
6. ‘Working in a Different Way Now’: Division and Peacebuilding in the Aftermath of the ‘Good Governance’ Coup ................................................................. 179

Gender Politics and Circumstance: Some Contingent Conclusions ......................................................... 217

Bibliography ........................................................................ 229