I recorded this version of Suti Solo do Bina Bane from the poet Alex Mada from Landu during the second recording session on Bali in October 2007. Although it was hard to gauge his age, Alex Mada is, I suspect, the oldest Rotenese poet whom I have recorded—probably even older than Old Meno. Small and sprightly and without his teeth, he spoke with a quiet, clear voice. His trip from Landu on Rote to Sanur in Bali was for him, an extraordinary adventure. He confided to me that flying above the clouds in the plane that brought him to Bali was like travelling to heaven. He was an enthusiastic participant and was particularly happy to offer his version of Suti Solo do Bina Bane.

The traditions of Landu are somewhat problematic among the domains of Rote. In 1756 in a bitter dispute with the Dutch East India Company, Landu’s population was ravished. Its settlements were destroyed and hundreds of men, women and children were captured and sold into slavery. Those who escaped this onslaught dared not return to their homes. Landu became, for decades, a no man’s land and only began to be resettled in the nineteenth century. Gradually, Landu’s dynasty re-established itself and re-established the domain with settlers from many other domains—from as far away as Dengka but predominately from its own remnant population and that of the neighbouring domains of Ringgou and Korbaffo. Its traditions reflect this history.
My student Lintje Pellu, who was born in Termanu, wrote her ANU PhD thesis on Landu in 2008. This thesis, ‘A Domain United, A Domain Divided: An Ethnographic Study of Social Relations and Social Change among the People of Landu, East Rote, Eastern Indonesia’, is a critical ethnography that documents the tragic history and eventual reconstitution of Landu. During Lintje’s fieldwork, Alex Mada became one of her key informants and she was able to record a version of Suti Solo do Bina Bane from him, which she included in her thesis. This version is a slightly longer recitation of this same chant.

Suti Solo do Bina Bane

The Rice and Millet Ripen in the Fields

Alex Mada’s recitation begins by naming the woman Noa Bafo and the girl Lole Ora. She guards her ripening fields. The women are considered a pair who speak to each other, preparing for the harvest that will require a fua poi/peda bafa offering.

1. Ina Noa Bafo          The woman Noa Bafo
2. Ma feto a Lole Ora   And the girl Lole Ora
3. Feto ma-nea tine     A girl who watches her field
4. Ma ina ma-sala rene  And the woman who guards her garden
5. Ina ma-nea rene      The woman who watches her garden
6. Ma feto ma-sala tine The girl who guards her field
7. Na-nea neu tine      She watches over her field
8. Ma na-sala neu rene. And she guards her garden.
9. Boe ma mete i no ona She looks north and south
10. Ma relu dulu no muri And she spies east and west
11. Bete-ka kabo'a     The millet puts forth grains
12. Fo kabo'a e'etu    Grains ready to be plucked
13. Ma hade-ka modo peda And the rice grows green tips
14. Fo modo peda o'oru. Green panicles to be harvested.
15. Tëhu, duas dede'a leo But the two talk with each other
16. Ma telus o'ola leo: And the three speak with each other:
17. 'Kabo'a e'etu         ‘Grains ready to be plucked
18. Ma modo peda o'oru   And panicles ready to be harvested
19. Tëhu fua poi bei ta'a But the fua poi ritual has not been held
20. Ma peda bafo bei ta'a.’ And the peda bafo ceremony has not been done.’
Lole Ora and Noa Bafo prepare their scoop-nets with lontar leaf stalks and Ndaonese cotton.

Lole Ora and Noa Bafo Make their Fishing Nets

21. Beka rae: tua esa nai Safu
They say: a lontar on Savu

22. Fo beba esa nai Safu
With its leaf-stalk on Savu

23. Ma rae: abas esa nai Rao
And they say: a cotton plant on Ndao

24. Fo pena esa nai Rao.
With its cotton tufts on Ndao.

25. Boe ma besak ka
Now then

26. Fetok ka Lole Ora
The girl Lole Ora

27. Ma inak ka Noa Bafo
And the woman Noa Bafo

28. Tāti neni beba esa
She cuts a leaf-stalk

29. Ma sesa neni laka esa
And slices its head

30. Teri kokondo rai
She ties tightly a scoop-net

31. De rai ea aba don
A scoop-net of cotton

32. Ma ane bubui se'o
And she binds closely a fishnet

33. De se'o bui fepa dean.
A fishnet of thick lontar leaf.

34. Se'o bui a dadi
The scoop-net is made

35. Ma rai ea mori.
And the fishnet is ready.

Before dawn, the two women go to the sea and begin their fishing—throwing and thrusting their nets, then scooping up their contents. In the process, they scoop up Suti Solo and Bina Bane.

Lole Ora and Noa Bafo Go Fishing in the Tidal Waters

36. Boe ma rae:
So they say:

37. Meti bei koa kako
The tide before the rooster crows

38. Ma tasi bei dulu pila
The sea before the east reddens

39. Feto a Lole Ora
The girl Lole Ora

40. Ma ina Noa Bafo
And the woman Noa Bafo

41. Neu nama rai rarano
Goes to thrust and fish

42. Ma nama-se'o toto'o
And to throw and to scoop

43. Nama-se'o toto'o
To scoop by throwing
13. A VERSION FROM THE DOMAIN OF LANDU

44. Ma nama-rai rarano. And to fish by thrusting.
45. De rae: They say:
46. Tāsi bei koa kako The sea before the friarbird sings
47. Ma meti bei dulu pila And the tide before the east reddens
48. De sua se'o neu laka She mounts the scoop-net on her head
49. Ma rae rai neu aru And she rests the fishnet on her shoulder
50. Nama-se'o toto'o To scoop by throwing
51. Ma nama-rai rarano And to fish by thrusting [in]
52. Meti leo lifu dale The tide like a water pool
53. Na mada nama-tutu As it dries steadily
54. Ma tasi leo nusa lai And the sea becomes like raised land
55. Na meti nama-sesele As the tide recedes
56. Se'o to'o, se'o to'o Scoop throw, scoop throw
57. Ma rai rano, rai rano Fish thrust, fish thrust
58. Rai ra Suti Solo She fishes Suti Solo
59. Ma se'o na Bina Bane And she scoops Bina Bane
60. Se'o toto'o heni Scoops and throws away
61. Ma rai rarano heni. Fishes and throws away.
62. Rali lifu ma pinda meti Shifts pool and changes tides
63. Tēhu leo na ko se'o a But even as she scoops
64. Nama-se'o toto'o She scoops and throws
65. Ma nama-rai rarano And she fishes and thrusts
66. Se'o na Bina Bane She scoops Bina Bane
67. Ma rai na Suti Solo And she fishes Suti Solo
68. Se'o toto'o heni She scoops and throws away
69. Ma rai rarano heni. And she fishes and throws away.

Suti Solo do Bina Bane speak, telling Lole Ora and Noa Bafo not to throw them away but to take them home.

The Beginning of the Dialogue with Suti Solo do Bina Bane

70. Boe ma Suti Solo dedē'a So Suti Solo speaks
71. Ma Bina Bane nafada, nāe: And Bina Bane talks, saying:
The dialogue begins with Suti Solo do Bina Bane. Lole Ora and Noa Bafo suggest that the two shells go with sea refuse and ocean flotsam; the shells consider this but decline the offer.

The First Dialogue Directive

It is said:
Lole Ora talks
And Noa Bafo speaks, saying:
‘Go with the sea refuse
And go with the flotsam.’
So Suti Solo talks
And Bina Bane speaks, saying:
‘Oh the sea refuse
May be fine
And the flotsam
May be proper
But if the monsoon comes again to the east
To sweep away the flotsam
And the west monsoon returns to the head
To flood away the sea refuse
Then with whom will I sob
And with whom will I cry?’

Lole Ora and Noa Bafo then propose that the shells go with the harbour crabs and shore molluscs. But the harbour crabs and shore molluscs are the target of night-time fishing so, weeping, Suti Solo do Bina Bane again decline this possibility.
The Second Dialogue Directive

95. Boe ma Lole Ora dede’a So Lole Ora speaks
96. Noa Bafo nafada, nae: Noa Bafo talks, saying:
97. ‘Sona mu mo ni namo ‘Then go with the harbour crabs
98. Ma mu mo kuma dae.’ And go with the shore molluscs.’
99. Boe ma Suti Solo dede’a leo So Suti Solo speaks forth
100. Ma Bina Bane nafada leo, nae: And Bina Bane talks out, saying:
101. ‘De tata pele laka namo ‘Then if the fishing torch is unwound
102. Ma [Fo] loti hen ni namo To torch-fish away the harbour crabs
103. Ma fule no do dae And coconut leaves are unbound
104. Fo pele hen kuma dae To night-fish away the shore molluscs
105. Na u o bea bali?’ Then with whom will I be once more?’
106. Suti nasa-edu boboto Suti sobs weepingly
107. Ma nama-tani bobolu And cries tearfully.

Lole Ora and Noa Bafo then propose that they go with the boa trees in the harbour and the pi’o (piko) trees in the estuary. These soft-wooded trees are easily split apart by the monsoon, so again Suti Solo and Bina Bane decline this proposal.

The Third Dialogue Directive

108. Boe ma Lole Ora nafada So Lole Ora talks
109. Ma Noa Bafo dede’a, nae: And Noa Bafo speaks, saying:
110. ‘Sona mu mo boa namo ‘Go with the boa trees in the harbour
111. Ma mu mo pi’o oli.’ And go with the piko trees in the estuary.’
112. Boe ma Suti nafada bali So Suti talks once more
113. Ma Bina dede’a bali, nae: And Bina speaks once more, saying:
114. ‘Tê leo pi’o oli malole so ‘The piko trees in the estuary are fine
115. Ma o boa namo mara a so And the boa trees in the harbour are proper
116. Tê leo timu rasa-rua dulu But if the monsoon comes again to the east
117. Fo seki hen boa namo To split apart the boa trees in the harbour
118. Ma fa rasa-fali laka And the west monsoon returns to the head
Lole Ora and Noa Bafo then propose that they go with the house post and old beam. These lines appear to conflate house post/old beam with syrup vat/millet basket. As a result, there are four lines here that, though paired, do not make clear sense.

The Fourth Dialogue Directive

123. Boe ma Lole Ora nafada
    So Lole Ora talks
124. Ma Noa Bafo dede’a nae:
    And Noa Bafo speaks, saying:
125. ‘Sona mu mo timi di’
    ‘Then go with the house post
126. Sona [mu] mo balo tua.’
    Then go with the old beam.’
127. Boe ma [Suti] nae:
    So Suti says:
128. ‘O balo tua a malole a so’
    ‘Oh the old beam is good
129. Ma timi di ho mara so
    And the house post is proper
130. Te leo bou tua hene lo’
    But if the lontar vat ascends the home*
131. Ma fati bete ae uma’
    And the millet basket rises in the house*
132. Seki heni bou tua’
    And splits apart the lontar vat*
133. Te [hea] heni balo tua’
    And tears apart the old beam*,
134. Na o u bea bali?’
    Then with whom will I be once more?’

These next lines correct the preceding lines (130–33): Lole Ora and Noa Bafo tell the shells to go with the lontar (syrup) vat and the millet (not the rice) basket, but if visitors come and take from the vat and basket, it will be emptied.

The Fifth Dialogue Directive

135. Boe ma Lole Ora nafada
    So Lole Ora talks
136. Ma Noa Bafo dede’a, nae:
    And Noa Bafo speaks, saying:
137. ‘Sono mu mo fati bete’
    ‘Then go with the millet basket
138. Ma mu mo bou tua.’
    And go with the lontar vat.’
139. Boe ma [Suti] nae:
    So Suti says:
Lole Ora and Noa Bafo tell the shells to go with the border stone and boundary tree, but if a hundred goats and a thousand buffalo come, they will kick over the boundary tree and trample the border stone, leaving the shells on their own.

The Sixth Dialogue Directive

145. Boe ma sona, Lole Ora nafada
So then Lole Ora talks

146. Ma Noa Bafo dede’a nae:
And Noa Bafo speaks, saying:

147. ‘Mu mo to batu
‘Go with the border stone

148. Ma mu mo peu ai.’
And go with the boundary tree.’

149. Boe ma Suti nafada leo
So Suti talks out

150. Ma Bina dede’a, nae:
And Bina speaks forth, saying:

151. ‘Te leo bulan bibi nara mai
‘But if the moon’s goats come

152. Fo bibi natu ara mai
A hundred goats come

153. Fo fetu heni peu ai
To kick over the boundary tree

154. Ma ledo apa nara mai
And the sun’s buffalo come

155. Fo apa riful nara mai
A thousand buffalo come

156. Fo hake heni to batu
To trample the border stone

157. Na o bea bali?’
Then with whom will I be once more?’

Again, Lole Ora and Noa Bafo make another proposal: that the shells go to sacred forest groves—the huta of the wood//luli of the forest. But if these are cut down, the shells will be alone once more.

The Seventh Dialogue Directive

158. Boe ma nafada bai
So she talks again

159. Lole Ora dede’a
Lole Ora speaks

160. Ma Noa Bafo nafada:
And Noa Bafo talks:

161. ‘Sona mu mo nura huta
‘Then go to the sacred grove
162. Ma mu mo lasi luli.' And go to the forbidden forest.’
163. Boe ma Bina Bane nafada So Bina Bane talks
164. Ma Suti Solo dede’a nae: And Suti Solo speaks, saying:
165. ‘Au u o nura huta ‘I will go to sacred grove
166. Ma o lasi luli And to the forbidden forest
167. Te leo atu asa oli But if the sharpened chopping knife
168. Na lo’o henihenula huta Cuts down the sacred grove
169. Ma sosa do tei sina na And the adze with its Chinese blade
170. Huka henihasi luli Opens up the forbidden forest
171. Na o bea bali?’ Then with whom will I be once more?’

Once again, the women make a proposal. This time, they urge the shells to go with the people of the land and clansmen of the mountain, but if these people shift, the shells will again be abandoned.

The Eighth Dialogue Directive

172. Boe ma ana dede’a bali, nae: So she speaks once more, saying:
173. ‘Sona mu mo nusa iku ‘Go with the people of the land
174. Ma mu mo lete leo.’ And go with the clansmen of the mountain.’
175. Nae: [Suti] says:
176. ‘Au o lete leo o malole a so ‘My going with the clansmen of the mountain is good
177. Ma au o nusa iku o mara a so And my going with the people of the land is proper
178. Tehu leto leto a hira But if the clans of the mountain shift
179. Ma nusa iku o hai And the people of the land move
180. Na u o bea bali?’ Then with whom will I be once more?’

Finally, Lole Ora and Noa Bafo propose that the shells go to be joined with a gewang (Corypha palm) trunk and a lontar (Borassus palm) stalk and set in fields to serve as clappers to drive away birds that attack the growing fields. With this suggestion, the recitation comes to an end.
The Ninth Dialogue Directive

181. Boe ma Lole Ora nafada
So Lole Ora talks

182. Ma Noa Bafo dedé’a, nae
And Noa Bafo speaks, saying:

183. ‘Sona mo isi tula’
‘Then go with the gewang trunk

184. Ma mu mo londa fepa
And go with the lontar stalks

185. Fo era etu mu londa fepa
To be bound with the lontar stalks

186. Ma puru mo isi tula
And attached to the gewang’s trunk

187. Nai tine a dale
Within a dry field

188. Ma nai rene a dale.’
And within an irrigated field.’

The poem ended with Alex Mada’s follow-up explanation that the shells were to become ‘clappers’ to drive away the birds (manea manupui ra).

Analysis of Alex Mada’s Version of Suti Solo do Bina Bane

Alex Mada’s version of Suti Solo do Bina Bane consists of 69 dyadic sets. This number includes several formulaic sets that cannot be decomposed into simpler dyads. Of these 69 dyadic sets, a majority are dyadic sets shared with Termanu and would appear to belong to a widespread—possibly island-wide—core of ritual pairs. Many of these sets are basic and are recognisable despite phonological differences in the dialects of the two domains.

Some of these dyadic sets with similar phonology that are immediately recognisable are, for example: 1) betel/hade (‘millet’//’rice’); 2) bulan/ledo (‘moon’//’sun’); 3) dua/telu (‘two’//’three’); 4) fa/timu (‘west wind/monsoon’//’east wind’); 5) feto/ina (‘girl’//’woman’); 6) lifu/metini (‘pool’//’tide’); 7) lolu/uma (‘home’//’house’); 8) lotil/pele (‘[to fish] by torchlight’//’[to fish] by leaf-torch’); 9) metil/tasi (‘tide’//’sea’); 10) namoli/oli (‘harbour’//’estuary’).

Other sets, which may be less easily recognised because of Landu’s dialect phonology, still form part of this wider core of shared ritual terms. They are the same terms as used in Termanu. Some examples of these dyadic sets are the following—for example, in contrast to Termanu, Landu lacks initial ‘k’. Hence the following transformations:
Table 9: Termanu–Landu Dialect Comparisons I

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Termanu</th>
<th>Landu</th>
<th>Gloss</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>kargas//tua</td>
<td>abas//tua</td>
<td>‘cotton’//‘lontar’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ketu//kolu</td>
<td>etu//oru</td>
<td>‘to pick’//‘pluck’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kedu//tani</td>
<td>edu//tani</td>
<td>‘to sob’//‘weep’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ki//kona</td>
<td>i//ona</td>
<td>‘left’//‘right’</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Landu also lacks medial ‘k’, while on the other hand, Landu retains certain medial consonants that Termanu lacks:

Table 10: Termanu–Landu Dialect Comparisons II

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Termanu</th>
<th>Landu</th>
<th>Gloss</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>boa//piko</td>
<td>boa//pi'o</td>
<td>‘boa tree’//‘piko tree’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kapa//bi'i</td>
<td>apa//bibi</td>
<td>‘water buffalo’//‘goat/sheep’</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Medial ‘ng’ in Termanu becomes ‘k’ in Landu, while some initial and some medial ‘l’ become ‘r’; hence these transformations:

Table 11: Termanu–Landu Dialect Comparisons III

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Termanu</th>
<th>Landu</th>
<th>Gloss</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>alu//langa</td>
<td>aru//laka</td>
<td>‘shoulder’//‘head’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ane//teri</td>
<td>ane//teri</td>
<td>‘tie’//‘bind/plait’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dadi//mori</td>
<td>dadi//moli</td>
<td>‘happen’//‘occur/become’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dulu//langa</td>
<td>dulu//laka</td>
<td>‘east’//‘head’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dulu//muli</td>
<td>dulu//muri</td>
<td>‘east’//‘west’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>leo//ingu</td>
<td>leo//iku</td>
<td>‘clan’//‘land’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>natu//lifu</td>
<td>natu//rifu</td>
<td>‘hundred’//‘thousand’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nula//lasi</td>
<td>nura//lasi</td>
<td>‘wood’//‘forest’</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Medial ‘nd’ in Termanu becomes ‘r’ in Landu:

Table 12: Termanu–Landu Dialect Comparisons IV

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Termanu</th>
<th>Landu</th>
<th>Gloss</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ndae//sua</td>
<td>rae//sua</td>
<td>‘to rest on shoulder’//‘mount on head’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ndai//seko</td>
<td>rai//se’o</td>
<td>‘to scoop’//‘fish with scoop-net’</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Despite these phonological differences, the semantic value of these dyadic sets is retained across both dialects. It is possible—though admittedly sometimes difficult—for speakers of one dialect to adjust to the sound shape of the other dialect and thus follow a ritual recitation.

More significant are the dyadic sets in which there occurs a shift in semantic terminology.

It is with these sets that we encounter levels of difference between ritual recitations in Landu and Termanu.

It is useful to focus on a few clear examples.

One example is the slight difference between Landu and Termanu in reference to the offerings that are supposed to be made at origin/harvest ceremonies. Where Termanu has peda poi//fua bafa, Landu has fua poi//peda bafa—a simple reversal of the terms fua//peda (‘to lift’//‘to place’).

Another example of a minor difference is in the terms for the house: Malesi uses the expression timi di//lungu tua (‘house post’//‘cross-beam’), while Landu has timi di//balo tua (‘house post’//‘old beam’). There is, in fact, variation among the naming of house parts in different domains and, as a consequence, variations among poets on the island in their references to parts of the house.

Another good example is where several poets of Termanu use the expression bou tual//neka hade (‘lontar syrup vat’//‘rice basket’), while Landu has bou tual//fati bete (‘lontar syrup vat’//‘millet basket’). Termanu is noted for its rice fields; Landu for its extensive millet cultivation.

In reference to growing rice and millet, Mikael Pellondou uses the formulaic expression hade la modo peda//betekala dio hu’u (‘the rice is green-tipped’//‘the millet has ripened grains’), whereas Alex Mada’s expression is hade-ka modo peda//bete-kaboa (‘the rice grows green tips’//‘the millet puts forth grains’).

In Termanu, nil//poek (‘crab’//‘shrimp’) form a pair; in Landu nil//kuma (‘crab’//‘mollusc’) form a pair. They appear to be used in similar contexts.

Other differences occur but may appear to be less immediately apparent.
Table 13: Termanu–Landu Dialect Comparisons V

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Termanu</th>
<th>Landu</th>
<th>Gloss</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>osi//tina</td>
<td>rene//tine</td>
<td>‘two kinds of fields’//’gardens’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bobolu//dodopo</td>
<td>bobolu//boboto</td>
<td>‘weeping’//’sobbing’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>taka//tala</td>
<td>atu//sosa</td>
<td>‘axe’//’adze’ (machete)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>seseko//kokolo</td>
<td>bubui//kokondo</td>
<td>‘tightly’//’closely’</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A Succession of Distinctive Formulaic Expressions

There occurs in Alex Mada’s recitation a succession of distinctive formulaic expressions that would resonate and be recognised by speakers of Termanu dialect but would not necessarily be considered part of Termanu’s oral phraseology.

Twice—in lines 37–38 and again in lines 46–47—Alex Mada uses the formulaic expression to describe the seascape in the early dawn:

* Tasi bei koa kako
* Ma meti bei dulu pila.

The sea before the friarbird sings
And the tide before the east reddens.

By contrast, both Meno and Seu Ba’i describe the dawn with this expression:

* Siluk bei ta dulu
* Ma hu’ak bei ta langa.

When morning is not yet in the east
And dawn is not yet at the head.

Equally common, in Termanu, is the expression that links the dawn to the sound of the friarbird and parrot:

* Boe-ma koa bei timu-dulu-la
* Ma nggia bei sepe-langa-la

Friarbirds still in the dawning east
And green parrots still at the reddening head

Alex Mada’s expression beautifully blends the physical appearance of the dawn with the song of the friarbird.
In Alex Mada’s recitation, the woman Lole Ora//Noa Bafo offers nine separate directives in her dialogue with the shells. Several of these directives given to the shells are distinctive. Thus, for example, initially Lole Ora//Noa Bafo tells the shells:

‘Mo tere tasi leo’ ‘Go with the sea refuse
‘Ma mo hambau leo.’ And go with the flotsam.’

These words would be understood in Termanu but no poet of Termanu uses this formula as one of his directives. (As will be seen, however, this expression is used in other domains, particularly Bilba.)

Again, in her second directive, Lole Ora//Noa Bafo urges the shells:

‘Sona mu mo ni namo’ ‘Then go with the harbour crabs
‘Ma mu mo kuma dae.’ And go with the shore molluscs.’

This, too, is a distinctive directive.

Similarly, Loe Ora//Noa Bafo tells the shells:

‘Sona mu mo boa namo’ ‘Go with the boa trees in the harbour
‘Ma mu mo pi’o oli.’ And go with the piko trees in the estuary.’

In Termanu, virtually all versions of Suti Solo do Bina Bane allude to the shells floating in the sea like boa and piko driftwood but in no recitation is there a directive to the shells to join these two soft-wooded coastal trees.

The fourth directive, ‘house post and old beam’, and the fifth directive, ‘lontar syrup vat and millet basket’, are variants on Termanu’s directives; the sixth directive, ‘border stone and boundary tree’, is a common formulaic expression in Termanu. The seventh directive, ‘huta stand and luli grove’ in the forest, is distinctive, while the eighth directive could be considered a variation on various formulaic expressions in Termanu.

The final directive is that the shells attach themselves to gewang palm trunk and lontar palm stalk to become a kind of sounding clapper to drive away birds and animals from the fields. This is reminiscent of some of the dialogue in Mikael Pellondou’s recitation and will occur again in Ande Ruy’s recitation from Ringgou.
This text is taken from Master Poets, Ritual Masters: The Art of Oral Composition Among the Rotenese of Eastern Indonesia, by James J. Fox, published 2016 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.