

List of figures

Fig. 2.1 The hybrid economy model	16
Fig. 2.2 Decentralised communities: A model	19
2.2.1 Traditional (pre-contact) household production scenario.	19
2.2.2 Neo-traditional (post-contact) household production scenario.	19
2.2.3 Prospective household production scenario	19
Fig. 2.3 Jon Altman at work, Gurrur outstation, Maningrida region, north-central Arnhem Land, Northern Territory, May 1980	22
Fig. 2.4 Jon Altman digging for white pigment at Gudjanggal, Maningrida region, north-central Arnhem Land, Northern Territory, September 1980.	25
Fig. 3.1 Nine variant forms (V1–9) of the visual representation of the hybrid economy	32
Fig. 3.2 The ‘true’ binary logic of the hybrid economy in black and white (V10)	34
Fig. 3.3 The ‘true’ binary logic of the hybrid economy showing distinction between the eight bounded white segments and the three coloured sectors (V11)	35
Fig. 3.4 The ‘true’ binary logic of the hybrid economy showing how the ‘true’ logic of primary colours creates eight coloured segments	35
Fig. 3.5 Interpretation of the eight segments defined by Boole’s zero/one binary logic	36

Fig. 3.6 Interpretation of the three sectors using data on their changing relative importance over time. 39

Fig. 5.1 The hybrid economy 58

Fig. 8.1 Map of the Torres Strait 99

Fig. 8.2 Aerial view of Masig and Koedal Islands 99

Fig. 8.3 Masig Islanders’ typical fishing boats 102

Fig. 9.1 Map showing Indigenous peoples of the southwest Gulf of Carpentaria. 112

Fig. 9.2 Copper sulphide from Redbank mine flows directly into Hanrahan’s Creek killing all aquatic life 114

Fig. 9.3 Sulphur dioxide billowing from McArthur River Mine . . 114

Fig. 9.4 Drawing of settler colonial violence in the Gulf Country, Dinny McDinny, (1927–2003). 115

Fig. 9.5 Same story, settlers–miners, Jacky Green, 2013. 116

Fig. 9.6 Land tenure in the southwest Gulf of Carpentaria 117

Fig. 9.7 Garawa ranger Donald Shadforth undertaking aerial controlled burning of his country at Robinson River 119

Fig. 9.8 FIFO—Fly In Fuck Off, Jacky Green, 2013. 121

Fig. 9.9 Whitefellas work like white ants, Jacky Green, 2014. 122

Fig. 9.10 Wundigala, Myra Rory, 2008 125

Fig. 10.1 Maruku Arts’ expenditure on puṇu in 17 regional Anṅangu communities per financial year 138

Fig. 10.2 Maruku Arts’ expenditure on puṇu in 11 regional Anṅangu communities with an art centre per financial year 139

Fig. 10.3 Maruku Arts’ expenditure on puṇu in six regional Anṅangu communities without an art centre per financial year 139

Fig. 13.1 Indigenous health reporting: number of stories in The Australian, Sydney Morning Herald and Courier Mail, 1994–95, 2002–03, 2006–07 173

Fig. 16.1 A snapshot of Indigenous-held land from 1788 to 2013 . . 209

Fig. 16.2 Indigenous land titling under three tenures	211
Fig. 16.3 Distribution of Indigenous population from the 2011 Census and Indigenous land titles in 2013	211
Fig. 17.1 A spectrum of housing options according to key variables	228
Fig. 17.2 Steps in the Tauranga Papakāinga housing toolkit	229
Fig. 17.3 Author's schematic of Stone's (2009) 'resident-saver' model	232
Fig. 17.4 Spectrum of housing tenure models across the US, UK and Australia	234
Fig. 19.1 Map of Nyangumarta native title determination area . . .	255
Fig. 19.2 Nyangumarta native title work by activity type (% of total time of Nyangumarta participation)	258
Fig. 19.3 Professions of non-Nyangumarta individuals involved in Nyangumarta native title activities, 1999–2014	259
Fig. 19.4 Number of organisations involved in Nyangumarta native title activities by type, 1999–2014	260
Fig. 23.1 Bugged in the Mann River Crossing, May 1979	291
Fig. 23.2 Anchor Kalumba at Mumeka, late 1979	291
Fig. 23.3 Indigenous census count 1971–2011	294
Fig. 23.4 Ratio of Indigenous to non-Indigenous employment and income outcomes, 1971–2011.	295
Fig. 23.5 Ratio of Indigenous to non-Indigenous educational outcomes, 1971–2011.	295
Fig. 23.6 Land rights and ownership under three tenures, 2014 . .	296
Fig. 23.7 Distribution of the Indigenous population, 2011	297
Fig. 23.8 Distribution of discrete Indigenous communities	298
Fig. 23.9 Poster from Not Dead Yet: A Retrospective Exhibition featuring the work of Therese Ritchie and Chips Mackinolty	302

This text is taken from Engaging Indigenous Economy: Debating diverse approaches, edited by Will Sanders, published 2016 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.