Negotiating the Sacred II
Blasphemy and Sacrilege in the Arts
Table of Contents

Contributors vii
List of Illustrations xi
Acknowledgements xiii
Introduction: Lines in the sand 1

Elizabeth Burns Coleman and Maria Suzette Fernandes-Dias

Section I: Understanding Blasphemy and Sacrilege 9

1. Blasphemy and sacrilege: A challenge to secularisation and theories of the modern? 11
   David Nash

2. ‘The devil’s centres of operation’: English theatre and the charge of blasphemy, 1698-1708 23
   David Manning

3. Madonna and piano accordion: Disrupting the order of the world 37
   Elizabeth Burns Coleman

4. Materialising the sacred 55
   Dianne McGowan

Section II: Motivations for Artistic Blasphemy 67

5. Blasphemy and sacrilege in the novel of magic realism: Grass, Bulgakov, and Rushdie 69
   Peter Arnds

6. Les fees ont soif: Feminist, iconoclastic or blasphemous? 81
   Maria-Suzette Fernandes-Dias

7. The body of Christ: Blasphemy as a necessary transgression? 93
   Carolyn D’Cruz and Glenn D’Cruz

Section III: Reinterpreting Freedom of Expression 103

8. The monologue of liberalism and its imagination of the sacred in minority cultures 105
   Jasdev Singh Rai

9. Blasphemy in a pluralistic society 127
   Jeremy Shearmur
Section IV: Self-expression and Restriction

10. Blasphemy and the art of the political and devotional
   Christopher Braddock

11. Negotiating the sacred body in Iranian cinema(s): National, physical and cinematic embodiment in Majid Majidi’s Baran (2002)
   Michelle Langford

12. Silence as a way of knowing in Yolngu Indigenous Australian storytelling
   Caroline Josephs

Bibliography

Index