

List of illustrations

Figures

Figure 1.1: GDP per capita: Mainland China, Taiwan, Australia (USD purchasing power parity).	5
Figure 1.2: GDP and government revenue in Mainland China, 2010–20 (2010 prices).	7
Figure 1.3: Government revenue in Mainland China as a per cent of GDP, 2010–22.	8
Figure 1.4: Taiwan's government revenue as a per cent of GDP, 1996–2022.	10
Figure 1.5: Total government expenses as per cent of GDP, Australia, 2011–21.	14
Figure 3.1: A theoretical framework for the effect of vertical power structure change on policy experimentation.	68
Figure 3.2: The percentage of subnational revenue (expenditure) in total revenue (expenditure).	71
Figure 3.3: The geographic distribution of Pilot Free Trade Zones in China (2013–20).	73
Figure 3.4: The annual number of national and subnational policy documents on 'experimental point (Shidian)' (2003–20).	75
Figure 3.5: The annual number of policy documents on 'experimental point (Shidian)' promulgated by three subordinate organisations of the State Council (2003–20).	76
Figure 3.6: The total number of subnational policy documents on 'experimental point (Shidian)' in each province (2013–20).	78
Figure 3.7: The correlational relationship between the total number of subnational policy documents on 'experimental point (Shidian)' (2013–20) and the GDP (2019) in each province.	79
Figure 4.1: Taiwan's local governments.	95

Figure 6.1: VFI, across states, 2020–21.	148
Figure 6.2: Commonwealth Grants as a per cent of total state revenue.	148
Figure 6.3: State own-source revenue, GST and other payments from the Commonwealth as a proportion of total state revenue, 2020–21.	150
Figure 6.4: Approaches to HFE since Federation.	151
Figure 7.1: Australia: Local government jurisdictions and number of local governments.	166
Figure 7.2: Australia: Population per local area by jurisdiction, 1910–2020.	167
Figure 7.3: NSW JOs across LGAs.	170
Figure 7.4: NSW LALCs and Regional Areas.	172
Figure 7.5: RDA National Network.	174
Figure 7.6: 2020–21 Australian local government revenue (%) by category.	177
Figure 7.7: 2020–21 Australian local government expenditure (%) by category.	179
Figure 8.1: Fiscal expansion goes into reverse.	209
Figure 8.2: Central government transfers and local government transfer dependency.	211
Figure 8.3: Budgetary spending on education, health, social security and housing.	215
Figure 9.1: Australian annual GDP and GDP per capita growth since 1990–91.	224
Figure 9.2: Australia's terms of trade (1945–2021).	225
Figure 9.3: GDP growth, Australia's major trading partners.	226
Figure 9.4: Average GDP per capita growth, Australia's major trading partners.	226
Figure 9.5: Pre-COVID fiscal balance, all levels of government.	228
Figure 9.6: Australian quarterly GDP and GDP per capita since 2010.	229
Figure 9.7: Household savings ratio, 2000–2021.	231
Figure 9.8: Unemployment rate, 2000–2022.	232
Figure 9.9: Participation rate (top) and population 'not in labour force' (bottom), 2018–21.	233
Figure 9.10: Australian population growth since 1982.	234
Figure 9.11: Australia's population growth rate, IGR 2021 forecast.	235

Figure 9.12: Commonwealth budget parameters, 1996–97 to 2024–25.	238
Figure 9.13: Fiscal balance deterioration between 2019 and 2020.	239
Figure 9.14: Net debt deterioration between 2019 and 2025.	239
Figure 9.15: Fiscal balance, all levels of government (June 2018–June 2021).	240
Figure 9.16: Market sector productivity growth, 1996–2020.	242
Figure 10.1: Use of performance indicators—by category (city of Guangzhou, 2007–9).	261
Figure 10.2: Use of performance information during budget execution.	274
Figure 10.3: Use of PI during budget preparation.	276
Figure 12.1: The aid management cycle in AusAID.	311
Figure 12.2: Performance of Australian Aid (PAA) performance framework.	312
Figure 12.3: Performance framework for Partnerships for Recovery: Australia's COVID-19 Development Response .	317
Figure 14.1: Results of SEM.	368
Figure 15.1: Australian employment trends.	377
Figure 15.2: APS diversity trends, 2001–22.	379
Figure 15.3: APS classification profile by gender, 2022.	379
Figure 15.4: Agency capability domains.	394
Figure 16.1: Components of FGF reforms.	415
Figure 20.1: Total health expenditure (THE) and share of THE in GDP: 1990–2020.	500
Figure 20.2: The composition of the total health expenditure in China: 2005–20.	502
Figure 20.3: The share of self-treatment and no-treatment in health-seeking, 1993–2015 (%).	504
Figure 20.4: Government health expenditure per capita (RMB ,000) and population size in 27 cities in the Yangtze River Delta in 2019.	510
Figure 20.5: Primary care clinics' share of outpatient services in China: 2013–20.	513
Figure 20.6: CCDC's budget as a share of health expenditure: 2009–20.	515
Figure 20.7: Growth of health workers in different health institutions (%): 2011–20.	515
Figure 20.8: Composition of expenditure in CCDC: 2009–18.	516

Figure 20.9: CCDC budget and its share in government health expenditure: 2009–19.	517
---	-----

Figure 20.10: Government expenditure on public health and the local share of government public health expenditure: 2013–19.	517
---	-----

Tables

Table 3.1: Number of IECLG (2015) and CUGI (2018) winners and finalists by province and innovation type.	82
Table 7.1: Australian Government Department of Infrastructure and Regional Development (DIRD): Australian classification of local governments.	168
Table 7.2: NSW: Principal institutions of state–local relations.	175
Table 7.3: 2020–21 Australian local government revenue by jurisdiction, type (%) and per capita (AUD million).	178
Table 7.4: 2021–22 Australian local government expenditure by jurisdiction, type (%) and total (AUD million).	179
Table 8.1: List of central and local government shared tasks in basic public services, basic standards and division of expenditure responsibilities.	204
Table 8.2: The classification of budgetary units (2017).	206
Table 8.3: Slowing economic growth and fiscal trends under the ‘new normal’.	209
Table 8.4: Recent changes in revenue, expenditure, and transfers (annual growth, price-adjusted).	210
Table 8.5: Planned changes in dibao programs in Jiangxi province for 2020.	213
Table 9.1: Underlying cash balance, as at 2019–20 and 2020–21 budgets.	237
Table 9.2: Recent trade tensions between Australia and China.	242
Table 9.A1: Commonwealth Government general government key budget parameters, 1996–97 to 2024–25.	252
Table 10.1: Indicators used by central agencies in China.	261
Table 10.2: Indicators of program evaluation.	266
Table 10.3: Managerial indicators for provincial BPM adoption.	267
Table 10.4: Program performance indicators in Guangzhou, 2020.	270
Table 10.5: Comparisons of three stages of BPM in China.	272
Table 10.6: Use of PI in Guangzhou (2020).	274

Table 11.1: Performance contract signed between Feng county and one of its townships in Shaanxi province, 2017 (excerpts*).	288
Table 12.1: Evaluation in the Australian Public Service (APS) 1990–2020.	306
Table 13.1: Political and meritocratic indicators in the evaluation of party and government leading cadres.	340
Table 14.1: Sample characteristics.	365
Table 14.2: Mean comparisons.	366
Table 14.3: Standardised effects of meritocracy on professional autonomy.	369
Table 14.4: Standardised effects of meritocracy on public responsiveness.	369
Table 15.1: APS classification profiles, 1980–2020.	378
Table 18.1: Cooperation, coordination and collaboration: Definitions and characteristics.	457
Table 18.2: Strength (by staff numbers) of the 12 largest departments in the Hong Kong Government, 2020.	458
Table 19.1: Needs and supply of community-based services (2015).	484
Table 19.2: Performance targets set by the 13th Five-Year Plan (2016–20).	485
Table 20.1: Composition of government health expenditure in the general budget (RMB billion).	501
Table 20.2: Reasons for poverty for 89 million rural poor in China in 2013.	503
Table 20.3: Breakdown of revenues for different types of medical institutions in 2019.	516
Table 21.1: Incentives and conditions for the layering process.	530
Table 21.2: Actors in the Safeguard Happiness Station Project.	534

This text is taken from Dilemmas in Public Management in Greater China and Australia: Rising Tensions but Common Challenges, edited by Andrew Podger, Hon S. Chan, Tsai-tsu Su and John Wanna, published 2023 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.