List of tables

Table 2.1 Urban policymaking and research links 27

Table 4.1 Climate change adaptation: Relevant policy sectors and co-benefits 66

Table 4.2 A timeline of Australian national climate change adaptation policy, 1972–2023 69

Table 5.1 Targets within the 'urban' Sustainable Development Goal 11 93

Table 7.1 National Heritage Criteria, 2000 135

Table 8.1 Component parts of population growth for Sydney, Melbourne, and Brisbane, 2015–2019 155

Table 8.2 Quarterly net internal migration for Australian capital cities, March 2020 to March 2021 156

Table 14.1 Estimated cost of supplying urban infrastructure for Melbourne's greenfield growth areas (A$) 271

Table 14.2 Principal funding sources by infrastructure type 273

Table 14.3 Funding principles by infrastructure category 275

Table 14.4 Selected events in the Commonwealth Government's involvement in infrastructure funding 277

Table 15.1 Recognition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' rights and interests in Australian planning legislation 296

Table 16.1 Greater Sydney Region Plan: District boundaries in the west 319

Table 16.2 Western Sydney district indexes of relative socioeconomic disadvantage 320

Table 16.3 Key demographics of western Sydney communities 321

Table 17.1 Tenure breakdown by dwelling type in three Australian capital cities, 2016 339

Table 17.2 Capital city change in tenure of 25–34-year-olds (household heads), 2006–2016 340

Table 17.3 Capital city change in share of tenure of 25–34-year-olds (household heads), 2006–2016 (per cent) 340

Table 20.1 Overview of proposed pathways for low-carbon urban transitions in Australia 393

This text is taken from Australian Urban Policy: Prospects and Pathways, edited by Robert Freestone, Bill Randolph and Wendy Steele, published 2024 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.