

List of Figures

Figure 1.1 Public polling between the 2017 and 2020 elections	4
Figure 1.2 Word cloud of issues in the 2020 election	10
Figure 1.3 Age-eligible turnout in New Zealand, 1946–2020	12
Figure 1.4 Age-eligible turnout by age, 1996–2020	12
Figure 1.5 Where the 2020 Labour votes came from	14
Figure 1.6 Where the 2017 National votes went	14
Figure 1.7 Where the 2017 New Zealand First votes went	14
Figure 1.8 The percentage probabilities of voting Labour based on social structure and demographics	19
Figures 1.9a–c The probability of a Labour vote by asset types, household income, and age	20
Figure 2.1 The relationship between Covid-19 cases and the survival or defeat of incumbent governments, 2020–2022	45
Figure 2.2 Quarterly GDP growth	48
Figure 2.3 Unemployment rate	49
Figure 2.4 Average right–left scale positions, 2017 and 2020	51
Figure 2.5 Opinion on government action to reduce inequality	52
Figure 2.6 Government expenditure preferences, 2017 and 2020	52
Figure 2.7 A model of the shift to Labour in 2020	53
Figure 2.8 Labour vote in 2020: Effects of trust in Jacinda Ardern, approval of Covid-19 response, and previous vote	55
Figure 2.9 How left–right position conditioned the effect of response approval on the shift to Labour	55
Figure 2.10 Approval of the Covid-19 response	56

Figure 3.1 Total number of Facebook posts by parties and their leaders	73
Figure 3.2 Percentage of posts by all actors that included issue coverage or a call for mobilisation (five-day moving average)	74
Figure 3.3 Positive minus negative references in Facebook posts by Labour and Jacinda Ardern and by National and Judith Collins (five-day moving average)	76
Figure 3.4 Total number of Facebook posts by each party and their leader containing fake news and half-truths	78
Figure 3.5 Percentage by which internet use for political information differed from mean use	80
Figure 3.6 Percentage by which Facebook use for political information differed from mean use	82
Figure 3.7 Percentage by which Instagram use for political information differed from mean use	82
Figure 3.8 Percentage by which Twitter use for political information differed from mean use	83
Figure 3.9 Percentage of voters contacted by political parties via different campaign channels	84
Figure 3.10 Percentage of voters contacted by political parties via social media since 2011	85
Figure 3.11 Voters' self-assessment of their ability to identify misinformation and disinformation (deviations from the mean)	88
Figure 3.12 Multivariate analysis results for rating Jacinda Ardern as 10 for likeability (deviations from mean)	89
Figure 3.13 Multivariate analysis results for rating Judith Collins as a zero to three (deviations from mean)	90
Figure 4.1 Cumulative advance votes in 2014, 2017, and 2020	112
Figure 4.2 Change in satisfaction with democracy, 2017 and 2020	113
Figure 4.3 'Most politicians can be trusted', 2017 and 2020	113
Figure 4.4 Campaign contacts by political parties, 2011–2020	115
Figure 4.5 Interest in politics and attention to the media, 2017 and 2020	117
Figure 4.6 Voting as a choice or a duty	117
Figure 4.7 The probability of voting in favour of the legalisation of cannabis by age and ethnicity	118
Figure 4.8 The effect of interest in the referendums on turnout in 2020	120

Figure 5.1 The average level of agreement among participants of Māori descent with statements about events unfairly discriminating against Māori, broken down by vote (party and electorate vote combined)	138
Figure 5.2 How much participants liked the Labour Party on a scale of 0 (dislike) to 10 (like) across elections for Māori on the Māori and general rolls, alongside non-Māori	141
Figure 5.3 How much participants liked the Māori Party on a scale of 0 (dislike) to 10 (like) across elections for Māori on the Māori and general rolls, alongside non-Māori	142
Figure 5.4 The percentage of participants who said they trusted Labour split by Māori on the Māori roll, Māori on the general roll, and non-Māori	142
Figure 5.5 Differences across Māori on the Māori roll, Māori on the general roll, and non-Māori for 0 (left) to 10 (right) ratings of the ideological position of the Māori Party	144
Figure 5.6 Differences in self-ratings of how important being involved in Māori culture is for voters of Māori descent	145
Figure 5.7 How voters across Māori on the Māori roll, Māori on the general roll, and non-Māori rated the likeability of each leader on a scale from 0 (strongly dislike) to 10 (strongly like)	147
Figure 6.1 Reopening borders to those from countries with Covid-19	167
Figure 6.2 Percentage of respondents wanting levels of immigration reduced, 2002–2020	168
Figure 6.3 What should happen to immigration levels, 2017 and 2020 compared	169
Figure 6.4 Attitudes to levels of immigration by socioeconomic status, ethnicity, country of origin, and party vote	170
Figure 6.5 Percentage of respondents agreeing that immigrants are good for the economy, 2002–2020	172
Figure 6.6 Percentage of respondents thinking immigrants harm New Zealand culture, 2002–2020	172
Figure 6.7 Percentage of respondents agreeing that New Zealand should encourage certain kinds of immigrants when the border reopens	174
Figure 6.8 Should the housing market be open to foreign buyers living overseas?	176
Figure 6.9 Should immigrants have access to welfare?	177
Figure 7.1 Do men make better leaders than women? 2017–2020	192

Figure 7.2 Do men make better leaders than women? Gender and party vote	192
Figure 7.3 Do men make better leaders than women? Generation and gender	193
Figure 7.4 Ratings of Ardern's and Collins' trustworthiness and competence	196
Figure 7.5 Ratings of Ardern and Collins by party and gender	197
Figure 7.6 Support for the government's Covid-19 response by gender and party vote	204
Figure 7.7 Positive emotional responses to economic situation by gender and party vote	207
Figure 7.8 Gender attitudes to cutting social services and debt reduction by party	207
Figure 7.9 Ratings by gender and generation on cutting social services (1) versus taking longer to reduce debt (5)	208
Figure 7.10 Gender differences in support for further spending across health, welfare, and superannuation	209
Figure A7.1 Gender Justice Collective Scorecard: Election 2020	218
Figure 9.1 'Do you believe that climate change is happening and, if so, why?'	256
Figure 9.2 'Do you think climate change will harm you/future generations of people?'	258
Figure 9.3 'In your opinion, over the next 20 years, how likely is it that action by governments, businesses, and people in general will significantly slow climate change?'	259
Figure 9.4 'How much do you agree or disagree with the statement: "To act against climate change, stronger government policies are needed to reduce carbon emissions"?'	260
Figure 9.5 Support for government action according to demographic and ideological predictors	262
Figure 9.6 Support for government action according to economic outlook predictors	264
Figure 10.1 Political polls, inflation, and the stringency index, 2020–2023	281
Figure 10.2 'Remove or keep Treaty in the law'	292

This text is taken from A Team of Five Million?: The 2020 'Covid-19' New Zealand General Election, edited by Jennifer Curtin, Lara Greaves and Jack Vowles, published 2024 by ANU Press, The Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.